 We are pleased to present the sixth issue of the Review Journal for Digital Editions and Resources (RIDE), published by the IDE since 2014, which is at the same time the first issue on Digital Text Collections (DTC). We generally define DTCs as digital resources that involve the collecting, structuring and enrichment of textual data and include in this definition DTCs from various humanities disciplines such as Literary Studies, Linguistics and History. Motivation and scope 2 From the beginning, RIDE has been conceived not only as a...

CELT - Corpus of Electronic texts

CELT - Corpus of Electronic texts , Hiram Morgan (ed.), 1997. <http://celt.ucc.ie/> (Last Accessed: 31.05.2017). Reviewed by Turlough O'Riordan (Royal Irish Academy), t.oriordan \(at\) ria.ie. || Abstract This review addresses the 'CELT - Corpus of Electronic texts' archive, developed and housed at University College Cork, Ireland. CELT is a digital humanities archive - and arguably a scholarly platform - comprising 1600 documents. An account of its piecemeal historical evolution, spanning the emergence of the Digital Humanities in Ireland, is given in this review. It contextualises the range of content (documents, editions, works), for the most part digital representations based on TEI,...

It is the result of a cooperation between literary and linguistic scholars, research libraries, and editorial societies and aca...

Varitext und das Corpus des variétés nationales du français

Varitext , Sascha Diwersy, Peter Blumenthal, Salah Mejri (ed.), 2013. <http://syrah.uni-koeln.de/varitext/> (Last Accessed: 15.08.2017). Reviewed by Julia Burkhardt (University of Leipzig), jburk@rz.uni-leipzig.de. || Abstract This review discusses the web-based platform Varitext that up to now provides free-of-charge access to the Corpus des variétés nationales du français (CoVaNa-FR) and is designed to assimilate further linguistic corpora of other languages in the future. The aim of Varitext is to make available large-scale resources of so-called ‘pluricentric’ languages focussing on the national variations of the respective standard languages. At present French standard variet...

Corpus of Spanish Golden-Age Sonnets

Reviewed by José Calvo Tello (University of Würzburg), jose.calvo (at) morethanbooks.eu. || Abstract In this paper a TEI corpus with sonnets from the Spanish Golden-Age is reviewed. Some of the 52 authors represented in the collection are Cervantes, Lope, Quevedo, Tirso, Calderón or Góngora. In total, the corpus contains more than 5000 sonnets. The project is currently under development at the University of Alicante, Spain. One of the strongest aspects of this corpus is the metrical annotation of ea...

Regesta Imperii Online

Regesta Imperii online , Deutsche Kommission für die Bearbeitung der Regesta Imperii e.V. (ed.), 2001-2017. <http://www.regesta-imperii.de/> (Last Accessed: 12.08.2017). Reviewed by Julian Schulz (Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität), julian.schulz \(at\) Imu.de. || Abstract Regesta Imperii (RI) online is one of the fundamental platforms for medieval research. RI stands for a combination of tradition and innovation. Based on the printed volumes which have been released since the early 19th century up until now, the text collection brings together the traditional arrangement of the research project and the wide range of new possibilities resulting from the digital form of presentation. The long-term w...
